

The Art of Survival 2018

A 12 MONTH DESK CALENDAR

Artists see the world through different eyes. Colors are not simply bright or dark or cool or warm; for an artist, colors can have texture and depth and context.

Life experiences can shape the perspective with which the artist approaches his or her work. Their vision comes to life through creative expression and has the power to influence the insight and perception of others.

Cancer survivors, also, see the world through different eyes. Days are not simply cloudy or clear or short or long; each day can have added value and new meaning and invaluable worth. A cancer diagnosis can shape the perspective in which a person approaches his or her life. Forced to confront the possibility of death, cancer can instead bring a person to life.

Make no mistake. . .there is truly an art to survival.

In celebration of the thousands of cancer patients we have treated over the past 41 years, CARTI is pleased to announce "The Art of Survival 2018," a 12-month desk calendar featuring the artistic impressions of those whose lives have been touched in some way by cancer.

A cancer diagnosis touches the lives of many. Whether you are a current or former cancer patient, the family member or friend of a cancer survivor, a physician or healthcare worker, a healthcare volunteer, a healthcare organization board member or donor, CARTI invites you to submit your artwork for possible inclusion in this unique, inspirational project.
